Small Graves For Tiny Pets

By NANCY STANCILL

A stroll through Pet's Rest Cemetery in Colma is a visit to a miniature world whose silent inhabitants are special.

The dogs, cats, ocelots, cheetahs, hamsters, horses, turtles and monkeys buried there are special because they were treasured so much by their human owners.

There's a sense of love and loss in the small cemetery that is not as immediately evident in most modern, human cemeteries.

The tiny tombstones tell of the devotion heaped on pets by their human masters, such as one that reads, "Liddy Ba — Tiniest Little Girl. Thank you for the love and magic you brought into my life."

Another marker to "Toni" relates a tragic end, "May thine vicious poisoner suffer even as he made thee writhe in pain."

Some of the small graves bear tombstones with engraved likenesses of a beloved dog or cat, while others are simply small, unobtrusive markers.

One corner of the eight-acre cemetery area bears several graves that are festooned with flags and flowers and marked with a small fence.

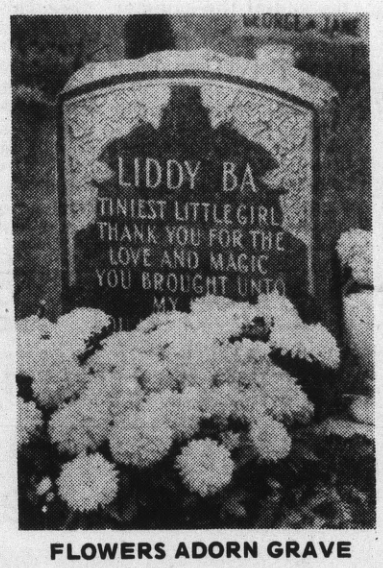
This gravesite will eventually include the remains of the first person to be buried in the pet cemetery — a man who wants to be lain to rest with his dogs.

A similar case will be the eventual burial of an area man in the Serbian cemetery, just across the gate from his dog, Duke von Bohlen Habach, who was buried in adjacent Pet's Rest.

Duke's marker bears the emphatic inscription — "Condemned by a faithless woman." The pet owner's wife apparently had the old dog put to sleep while the master was away.

In another corner of the cemetery is a tiny, whitewashed chapel provided by Pet's Rest. The small building's walls are lined with pictures of frolocking pets as they lived.

Pet's Rest Cemetery will celebrate its 30th anniversary in November. Sandwiched in between a number of people cemeteries on Colma's Hillside Boulevard, it is owned and operated by Phillip and Irene C'de Baca.



FLOWERS ADORN GRAVE

The pet cemetery was founded in 1947 by C'de Baca's father-in-law, Earl Taylor. The C'de Bacas inherited the venture when Taylor died last year.

According to C'de Baca, Taylor begin the business as an employe of Cypress Lawn Cemetery. He had gotten a number of requests from grieving owners to bury their pets at the cemetery, but pets were not allowed to be buried in a facility for humans.

So Taylor began the cemetery "as an after work sort of sideline," said C'de Baca.

C'de Baca, who has worked at the cemetery "off and on for about 10 years," was living on a farm in New Mexico when he and his wife got a call from Taylor. His father-in-law requested that they return to Colma to help out with the cemetery.

C'de Baca and his wife, along with one employe, take care of all the work involved in the cemetery operation.

Since its inception, C'de Baca said the Contract Disputes Voiced In D.C.

By BILL HURSCHMANN

It was all smiles last Thursday night as members on both sides of the Jefferson Elementary School District teachers dispute met at a League of Women Voters-sponsored public forum.

The two sides, which undoubtedly have had their angry exchanges in private negotiation sessions, were on their best behavior for about 50 Daly City residents and district teachers at the two-hour forum at the Westlake Community Center.

Teachers in the district, represented by the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association, have been working without a contract since the beginning of the 1976 school year. There are approximately 390 teachers in the district.

Thursday night's session was the first public airing of the issues which separate the district and its teachers: benefits, a grievance procedure and wages.

"We have good benefits, but we are seeking better ones," said Evelyn Sherry, a district teacher and member of the negotiating team.

"We have worked cooperatively in the past to obtain an adequate package of benefits. We don't want to lose the benefits we've gained over the years."

While Ms. Sherry addressed herself to the matter of benefits, Garry Bieringer, JCTA president, discussed the other two differences.

With respect to the grievance procedure, Bieringer said, "Teachers want bindg arbitration. If a problem can't be solved within the district, we should go outside the district."

A fact-finding report is expected within the next two weeks, although the

Special Hearing On Dump Enforcement

A three-person panel of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board will hold a public hearing Sept. 1 to determine whether Daly City is violating an enforcement order by continuing to operate the Mussel Rock dump past Aug. 15.

The dump was scheduled to be close Monday by an order of the WQCB, but Daly City officials have decided to continue its operation until the special panel makes a recommendation.

"As a result of an Aug. 12 meeting with the staff, we will continue using the dump until Sept. 1 without the expectation of enforcement," Daly City City Manager David Rowe said Tuesday.

City staffers met Friday with staff members of the WQCB. The meeting resulted in a request for more information on the cost of short-term alternatives to dump use and a decision to call for a special panel.

The panel, composed of three members of the board, will meet in Daly City City Council chambers at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 1.

The panel will hear evidence relating to Daly City's request to extend the dump operation until Feb. 15, 1978 — the date when construction is expected to be completed on the new Mussel Rock Transfer Station.

After hearing presentations by the city and interested parties, the panel will close its hearing and decide on a recommendation to the full board.

The nine-member board will take up the enforcement matter and the dump extension request Sept. 20. It is expected to approve the recommendations of the special panel.

Meanwhile, the Mussel Rock dump will be open for disposal as sual of Daly City and Pacifica garbage by the two scavenger companies which serve the cities' residents.

However, in case the panel makes a recommendatin that the dump should be closed immediately, Rowe said the scavenger copany lawyers are meeting with representatives of the San Francisco transfer facility.

The San Francisco transfer staton appears to be the most viable alternative for handling Daly City garbage between September and Feb. 15, 1978, according to Rowe.

City officials have estimated it would cost $241,800 to dispose of Daly City's garbage at the San Francisco transfer facility. The transfer operation would compact the city garbage and truck it to the Mountain View dump for disposal at a $15.50 per ton cost.

South San Francisco Transfer Station representatives have told Daly City that it can handle only 75 to 100 tons of Daly City's daily output of about 120 tons, so it is not expected that Daly City would opt for that alternative at $14.40 per ton.

The only other alternative would be direct haul to the Ox Mountain dump, which city officials estimate would cost an extra $403,104 in the interim, seven-month period.

The approximate $25.84 cost per ton reflects the high cost of travel time without use of compacting

State Child Care Funds

Center May Get Aid

A state child care grant of $75,705 for fiscal year 1977-78 apparently can be used for direct financial support of the center operated by the controversial Daly City Community for Children's Services.

The center, almost two years old, until recently received financial support from the state, San Mateo County and Daly City. However, the county has refused to support the center further and Daly City's future commitment is pending a look at the state's support.

The state's grant in AB 3059 monies for community-based child care was allocated specifically for "vendor payments," but the money "theoretically could fund all the children in the DCCS-operated center."

So said Glen Thomas of the State Office of Child Development. But he added that the center probably "couldn't afford" to operate entirely on its present level of state funding.

He said the grant to the DCCS provides for reimbursement to "vendors" or providers of day care, usually persons who keeps one or more children at a home during the day for a low-income parent.

The DCCS grant agreement will provide $1.21 per hour reimbursement for each low-income child who is provided with care from a vendor.

Admittedly, the DCCCS-operated center would not be considered a vendor, but "there's not a real clean

May Begin in Mid-September

Housing Project Loan Nearer

The long-awaited loan program for Daly City's residential rehabilitation project may begin in mid-September, city officials told members of the Daly City Rehabilitation Advisory Committee at an Aug. 11 meeting.

Community Development Director Don Fleming reported to the committee that the city's bond counsel, Richard C. Salladin, has okayed the work the city has completed so far.

Fleming said the next step will be for the Daly City City Council to set a public hearing on adoption of a finance program, formal designation of a residential rehabilitation area, and adoption of a public improvements plan.

The council, which tentatively has set a special meeting for Aug. 29, will probably act then to set the public hearing on the rehabilitation matters for Sept. 12.

Fleming said following the council action, the loan program could begin as early as Sept. 15 or up to six weeks later.

The city then will have authority to lend money, either state funds under the Marks-Foran Act or federal funds under Housing and Community Development Act monies.

Fleming said there is an immediate need for two new employes on the city's staff, a short-term consultant to process loans and a loan officer to manage the program.

The community development director said he is interviewing for the loan officer's position.

Committee member Ernie Pezzola said the requirement to provide for three bids from contractors on each project will cause delays, especially since there are already 40 applications from city residents.

Chairman William Schumacher noted that the advisory committee will meet again Aug. 22 at 7:30 p.m. The committee elected Conrad Pavellas vice-chairman and Jean McCoy secretary.

pet facility has handled 18,000 burials and cremations.

Although 18,000 "is not a lot," usage of the facility, particularly in the area of cremations, is rising, said the operator.

"We get people from all over the Bay Area," said C'de Baca. "They range from the super wealthy to the extremely poor, but they're all pet lovers."

C'de Baca, who sports long hair and jeans, relaxes in the small cemetery office, as he talks with a visitor.

Costs range from $150 to $240 for burial of small to large pets. The price includes pickup, a pet-sized coffin and maintenance of the gravesite for 20 years.

Cremation starts at $40 and goes to $90.

"It's getting more and more popular," he said of the lower-cost service. "People scatter the ashes at sea or bury them in their back yards."

C'de Baca is planning to construct a new crematory that will allow mass cremations, a move that will lower the present costs. The cemetery has about seven acres remaining for burials.

The cemetery operator has learned how to deal with the "heavily emotional" people who bring their pets in for burial.

"It's often their first experience with death, and they don't know what to do," said C'de Baca. He said the experience appears to help people deal with the fact of their own eventual death.

C'de Baca, a pet lover whose compassion for people is evident, is usually surrounded by his two dogs, Pinot and Daisy.

He said the dogs act as silent sentinels when other pets are buried.

C'de Baca had two cats who are now buried in the cemetery.

"Someone shot one of my cats and the other one committed suicide because she missed her brother," C'de Baca said of the pets he has mourned.

The cemetery operator said the pet facility is "different than a human cemetery."

"If you see two families in a human cemetery, there's never any communication. But in a pet cemetery, you see a person walk across the cemetery to offer condolences and friendship to someone else," he remarked.

He said that pet lovers are often lonely people who have little else in their lives.

"One woman told me, 'I've got four kids and I liked my dog best'," C'de Baca said. "I make no value judgment on that. I've got two dogs and a cat and I like my daughter the best."

But he is touched that "pet owners are as faithful to their pets as the pets were faithful to them."

The first person who buried an animal there still comes to visit the grave of his dog — 30 years later.

"We always get more visitors and more flowers than any of the other cemeteries combined," C'de Baca commented.

He said he has gotten criticism from people who charge that it's an extravagance to spend money on burying pets, that it would be spent better on human needs.

But C'de Baca thinks the service offers "emotional comfort."

"You have to bury Uncle Charlie — no matter how you felt about him," he concluded. "But it is an act of love to do something you don't have to do, but want to do."

Playground Action Rolls

Skateboard contests and a trip to the Rolladium highlighted the summer playground program sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department last week. This week's playground news:

LINCOLN PARK

A skateboard contest was held July 29 at Lincoln Park. Some of the tricks that the contestants had to perform were the helicopter, 360 turn, free-style, and two obstacle courses, one run with straight stanchions and another run with slanted stanchions.

Winners in the boys division were Greg Adams, winning first place with 500 points, and Nino Hernandez, winning second place with 210 points. Winner in the girls division was Bernadette Zimiga with 300 points.

definition" that would prohibit the DCCS from reimbursing itself, rather than an outside provider, at the specified $[illegible] level, said Thomas.

The DCCCS center is licensed to handle 24 children. If it took care of that number for an eight-hour day, five-day week, it could collect $60,403 in state reimbursement yearly, if the state allows reimbursement for the maximum number.

If that happened, according to Thomas, "We would talk to them about switching their funding from vendor payment to center-based payment."

"We would be hesitant to close down the center, unless it was serving children illegally," said Thomas, stressing that parents of children being funded must meet certain income levels. "We've looked at the center's records and we're satisfied with it."

The state's position, as outlined by Thomas, is in sharp contrast to that of the county and Daly City, who conducted a joint fiscal audit and program review of the DCCCS in the spring. The findings were released in June.

The review charged that $7,362 of a total state AB 3059 grant of $53,564 for fiscal year 1976-77 was deposited in a center operating account, when it should have been used for outside or vendor payments.

The report was critical that the DCCCS had not utilized but a small amount of the $53,564 for vendor payments and that most of the fiscal year's grant would have to be returned to the state.

The state does not yet have final figures on how much of the grant was administered by the child care corporation during 1967-77.

Following the report, the county, which was highly critical of the DCCCS management, said it would not consider providing further aid than the $16,160 it had given to the center in revenue sharing monies.

Daly City, which has funded the DCCCS with $130,000 in revenue sharing and from other federal sources, has emphasized that the city will not provide the main basis of support for the community-based organization.

Both the city and county have charged that the DCCCS Board of Directors, headed by the controversial Rev. Raymond Howard, has not involved parents with children at the center in its decision-making process.

Contract

tions of the three-member findings and recommendation panel will not be binding. The report will discuss issues in the 1976-77 grievance, and not this year's differences.

Discussing wages, Bieringer said, "We are the third lowest paid school district in San Mateo County. A year ago, we asked for a 10 per cent raise, but that still would not have brought us up to the county average. A five per cent raising today wouldn't bring us up to the cost of living increase experienced last year.

"We deserve this money," the JCTA president said. "We've worked for it."

Ned Fine, the district's chief negotiator, indicated a number of areas, including transfers, evaluations and class sizes, already have been ironed out at the table.

"In April," Fine added, "the district made its best offer, and it was rejected."

The district's benefit package, Fine said, "is well above the average in the county and state." Fine said the issue of hours to be worked was a difficult one — and one that he wouldn't discuss Thursday night. "I'm waiting for the fact-finding report," he said.

And, as to the matter of wages, Fine said, "The district has serious budgetary problems. It's a question of whether we can afford any salary increase."

Fine revealed that the district's final offer was a 2.6 per cent salary increase, with an overall increase of 7 per cent, including benefits.

"But what we need is money in the pocket," Bieringer countered. "We need take-home money to keep up with the cost of living."

"It isn't degrading to get a decent salary and pay your bills," Ms. Sherry added. "There's not a person here who doesn't equate hours worked with what they get paid. I don't think Ned (Fine), who is very well paid, would dispute that either," she said in the only swipe taken throughout the forum.

Trustee Dorothy Adams, also on the panel, said the issue isn't a matter of asking teachers to work without a cost of living increase. "It's a matter of the district being able to pay for that increase," she declared.

"If the teachers think there's any fat in the budget. . . . then define it and we'll look at it," Fine added.

Both sides indicated they did not want to see educational services for pupils lessened in any way.

And, both sides indicated they wouldn't mind open public negotiation sessions, although they did express reservations.

Mrs. Adams said the school board has favored public negotiations. But, she added that she wouldn't want 300-400 persons attending. She suggested that a representative sampling of the community and press would be allowed to attend.

Miriam Moss, a district teacher, said the JCTA never was asked whether it wanted open negotiations or not.

Negotiator Fine, however, said he doesn't favor public sessions.

"Negotiations are a delicate art," he said.

to limit the number of vehicles, said officials.

Mussel Rock Transfer Station, when completed, is expected generate an initial per-ton cost of $16.11, but according to Ron Mitchell, assistant to the city manager, the cost is slated to drop to $12.38 per ton in the spring of 1978 when Ox Mountain dump rates go down.

Cost of the Mussel Rock facility is estimated at $687,800 for construction with an annual operating cost of $314,104.

The Mussel Rock dump, operated by the city and the Daly City Scavenger Co. for many years, was the subject of a January order by the WQCB. The board ruled that the dump should be shut down by Aug. 15, when Daly City first estimated the new transfer station would be completed.

The board expressed fears that continued dumping at the coastside site would lead to ocean pollution if landsliding occurs there.

But Daly City has pointed out that a four and a half month delay in getting approval for the transfer facility was caused by difficulties with the Central Coast Zone Commission and the State Coast Commission.

When the city won final approval of the transfer station in July, it drafted a dump extension request to the WQCB, but the proposal was too late for the July meeting and another meeting was not scheduled until Sept. 20.

The new transfer station will be an enclosed facility where garbage will be compacted and transferred to large diesel trucks for a long-distance haul to the county's dump at Ox Mountain.

Apartment Dominance In Future

By JANET PARKER

Within just a few years, apartments will dominate the landscape in South San Francisco rather than single-family homes and the bulk of the city's population will be concentrated in the downtown area.

That was the picture projected by City Planner William Costanzo last week in a joint meeting of the Planning Commission and the City Council.

In addition, the estimated population of 80,000 by 1990 should be reduced to 70,000 as the city's General Plan is revised and updated, Costanzo said.

He also painted a gloomy picture of the availability of parking spaces, unless more stringent parking requirements connected with new developments are made.

In the free-wheeling session, the council and the commission covered the General Plan, downtown improvement plans, parking standards and the future of the soon-to-be abandoned Bethlehem Steel property.

Costanzo said he has a two-year schedule worked out to study and update the elements of the city's General Plan — the document that outlines the parameters of South San Francisco's future. The planner said the city never has had a parks element, and the commission and council may want to implement historic building and downtown revitalization elements.

Many of the city leaders expressed concern about the availability, of parking on South San Francisco streets.

Councilman William Borba suggested holding up approval of use permits until the city revises its parking standards. But, instead, the council asked Costanzo to recommend new parking formulas to the commission as soon as possible.

Presently, parking requirements are one space for one bedroom, 1¼ spaces for two bedrooms and 1½ spaces for three or more bedrooms

Borba said he's found that many residents can't park in front of their own houses. And Commissioner Roberta Teglia, who owns a small apartment building, said even some single persons have more than one car these days.

Costanzo said parking in South San Francisco is going to "be worse than some places in San Francisco," unless steps are taken for improvement.

"At least there, you can circle the block until you find a parking space," Costanzo said. "Here, you won't even be able to find one." He noted that any increase in parking standards will decrease building density and ultimately the population as well.

Commissioner Wesley Slade said he forsees a time when automobiles will have to be banned entirely from the downtown area and public transportation take over.

"We ought to be really on top of SamTrans to see that South City gets its fair share of transportation," Slade said.

Mrs. Teglia also said that recreational vehicle parking laws are not enforced.

"We have one of the toughest laws in the county," Costanzo said. Recreational vehicles must be parked in an enclosed area or kept in storage yard.

"Actually, it's not enforced," Mrs. Teglia said. "It puts people in a position where they have to fink on their own neighbors. Costanzo said owners are not asked to move their recreation vehicle unless there is a complaint.

A positive attitude toward downtown revitalization — an issue in the city off and on for some 40 years — was expressed by several of the councilmen and commissioners. But, there was not necessarily agreement how that should be accomplished.

"It's going to take an aggressive direction from this city to make this project come to fruition," Councilman Terry Mirri said. "Once 50 per cent of those merchants say, 'Yes,' I hope the council will use every bit of leverage it has to see this comes about."

Councilman Borba, however, said, downtown South San Francisco will be saved only if a single developer buys up business district land for a package improvement project, or if specialty shops dominate Grand Avenue.

"The city should not get involved in putting any cash flow into it," Borba said.

"We're all going to have to work together . . . or we're going to lose Grand Avenue," Mrs. Teglia responded. Merchants have been warned for a long time that Grand Avenue is deteriorating, but only in the last two years have they seen that prediction come true, she said.

"You can kill it right now, just with your attitude," she said.

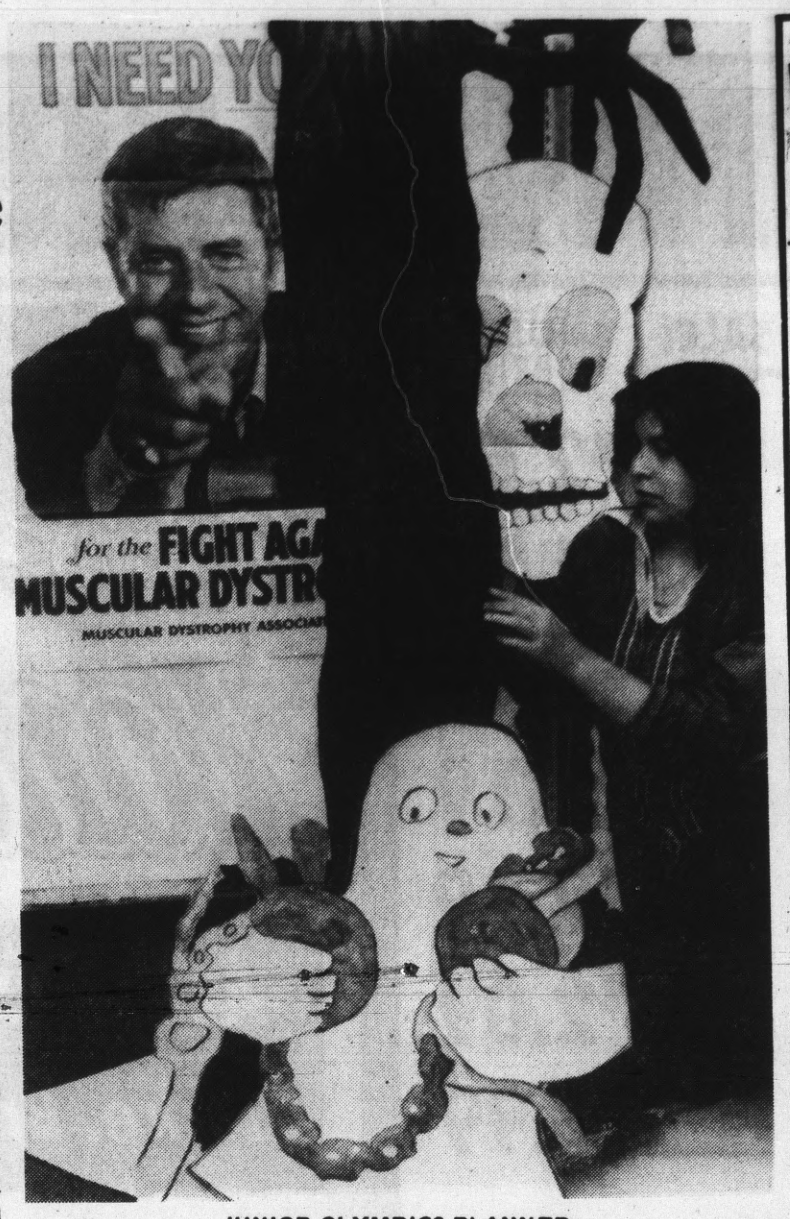
There was also disagreement over future use of the Bethelem Steel property just east of Highway 101 off Grand Avenue.

Only Borba said it should remain strictly industrial.

Costanzo said he has been questioned by a party interested in turning it into a scrap metal operation.

"I don't know if that's what we want on the doorstep of South San Francisco," he said. At least a corner of it, he said, could be utilized for a pretigious office complex.

"South San Francisco is sitting on a virtual goldmine," Councilman Dick Battaglia said. "No other city in this area has this potential."



JUNIOR OLYMPICS PLANNED

The Junior Order of Eagles of Colma Vista Grande Aerie 1848 has put all of its youthful energies into helping raise funds for Muscular Dystrophy, as Liz Martinez demonstrates. Teenagers have spent their summer vacation working with their M.D.A. representative, Janet Perry, on Muscular Dystrophy projects. Many Junior Eagles have worked at the San Mateo County Fair at the Frisbee Golf Tournament Aug. 13. Their own project will be a Junior Olympics at Westlake Park, Daly City, today from 10-3:30.

Seven Seeking Playoff Spots

With three weeks remaining in the 1977 Daly City Recreation Department Women's Softball league, seven of the nine teams still have a chance for the four playoff positions.

In last week's action, Natural Gas jumped its record to 4-1 and moved into a tie for first place — with a 23-9 victory over Crown Colony.

Catomer Realty won its fourth consecutive game by defeating the Nut Crackers 28-3, and moved to within one-half game of first place.

Bianchini's defeated the Cold Bottles 15-5, bringing its record to 3-2, only one game out of first.

The Cold Bottles record, fell (3-3). The Base Busters edged Charlie's Angels 7-5 to gain its second victory of the season.

Sabbath Services

Sabbath Services will be observed in the Sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Aug. 19 at 8:30 p.m.

Services will be led by Rabbi Ira Book, assisted by Cantor Salo Blumenthal, who will chant the liturgy.

Fire Hits DC Canyon

Veteran state firemen said they had never seen the canyon "burn like that before." The usually damp underbrush burned like kindling, he said.

BART Shields

BART has completed the installation of special sun shields which have been placed over the transit system's trackside electronic control boxes.

The metal sun shields were ordered and installed in an effort to minimize electronic problems in the line resulting from temperature variations, particularly during the hot weather months.

Past experience has shown that during hot weather the system experienced a rise in electronic irregularities. These occurred when the transit district's automatic control system registered a given track zone as being occupied by a train when it was not, possibly resulting in an operational delay.

Though BART's preventative maintenance program has greatly reduced the occurrence of such electronic problems, the new sun shields are expected to effect a further reduction by at least one third.

BART's assistant general manager for operations, Robert Gallaway, said a reduction of such incidents would benefit the passenger by further improving train reliability and service in general.

BART ordered the sun shields from A. R. Peterson & Son, who was the low bidder, at a total cost of $43,653.

FINE ARTS

Starving Artists Sale

One of the largest art shows and sales ever scheduled for San Francisco/Daly City will be presented Aug. 20 from 1 to 5 p.m. when the Starving Artists Group displays more than 5,000 original oil paintings at the Cow Palace on Geneva Avenue.

Entry is via Gate 5.

The show is open to the public, free of charge.

An added attraction at the show will be an art corner for children where young visitors may create their own works of art.

The Starving Artists' collection includes a variety of paintings suitable for display with any color scheme or choice or decor. They range from nudes and portraits to still and wild lifes, sea and landscapes, street scenes, florals, and abstracts.

Renaissance Faire

The 11th Annual Renaissance Pleasure Faire & Ha'Penny Market in Novato will add the glitter of gold to its Costume and Banner Contests to be held opening weekend Aug. 20-21 as $100 in "fyne crafts" will be awarded as first prizes each day to the winners.

A regular highlight of the fair always has been the many visitors who take pride in arraying themselves in proper Elizabethan attire in addition to the thousands of fair participants in period garb.

For the first time, these costumed guests will be eligible to participate in a spectacular parade down the lanes of the fair to the Ben Jonson Theatre on Saturday. A $100 first prize in crafts, second prize and honorable mentions of "Faire Ever" season passes will be awarded to the best dressed Elizabethans.

The fair will run for six consecutive weekends through Sept. 24-25, including Labor Day, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Admission, which covers all entertainment, is $5.95 for adults and $2.95 for children under 12. For information on group rates, cal 981-4907.

Festival Screenings

To enter the 31st annual San Francisco Art Festival, artists and crafts people are required to submit their works for screening at Fort Mason's Pier 2, at the bottom of Laguna St. at Marina Blvd. in San Francisco on Aug. 27, 28, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Artists will compete for $4,000 in City Purchase Awards, Exhibition Awards in nine Bay Area museums and civic art centers and more than $200,000 in sales to the public. The festival, set for San Francisco's Civic Center Plaza, Aug. 21-25, will draw a quarter-million people. More than 2,500 artists and crafts people are expected to submit work at the screening.

Artists may enter two works as large as four feet wide or one not more than 7 feet by 6 inches square. Each entry must include a self-addressed, stamped envelope, so that artists can be notified whether the work has been accepted. Crafts entrants should bring five samples and include a stamped envelope. Accepted artworks will be stored until the festival. Those not accepted must be picked up on Saturday, Sept. 3, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Jewelry will be screened on-the-spot at Pier 2 on Aug. 29 from 9 a.m. to noon. Jewelers must also bring five samples.

A two-thirds vote by the screening panel will be necessary for acceptance. Artists must bring a driver's license or other proof of residence in the following counties: San Francisco, Alameda, Marin, Solano, Napa, San Mateo, Contra Costa or Santa Clara.

The rules-of-entry brochure is available at Bay Area museums, art supply stores, art centers or the S.F. Art Festival office, 165 Grove St., San Francisco, CA 94102; telephone 558-3465.

The festival's Fine Arts Jury will include sculptors Bruce Beasley and Brian Wall, and painter Rolando Castellon, curator of the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art. Crafts jurors will be jeweler Imogene Gieling, weaver Beatriz Lopez and ceramist Coille Hooven.

Elegant Christmas

The second annual "An Elegant Celebration of Christmas at The Icehouse," a collection of trees, festive table settings and holiday decorations, is scheduled for Nov. 30 through Dec. 11 at The Icehouse, 151 Union st., San Francisco.

With all proceeds going to the American Conservatory Theater, the celebration is sponsored by The Icehouse, a complex of wholesale home furnishings and accessories showrooms.

The pre-Christmas event features idea-filled trees and tables created by interior designers, Hollywood personalities, and some others.

The celebration will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. Tax deductible tickets at $5 per person can be purchased at the door and special arrangements can be made for group tours.

Health Professionals Slow Their Smoking

American health professionals — physicians, dentists, pharmacists and nurses — are increasingly accepting the responsibility to lead the public away from cigarette smoking.

The newest figures show that only 21 per cent of physicians, 23 per cent of dentists and 28 per cent of pharmacists smoke. Nurses are smoking at the slightly higher rate of 39 per cent.

Health professionals are increasingly optimistic that those who want to quit can do so. Recent data confirm this belief. Cigarette smoking among adult males declined from 52 per cent in 1966 to 39 per cent in 1975 and smoking among women declined from 34 per cent to 29 per cent during the same period.

The attitudes and behavior of the health professionals have been reviewed in a study — Survey of Health Professionals: Smoking and Health, 1975 — by the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, in collaboration with the National Cancer Institute. It involved approximately 5,000 respondents from each of the four health professions. Members of the same groups had been studied between 1967 and 1969.

The 1967-69 studies showed 30 per cent of physicians, 34 per cent of dentists and pharmacists and 37 per cent of nurses smoke cigarettes.

The current report shows that a growing majority of health professionals link smoking to a variety of diseases, including lung cancer, emphysema and heart disease. In increasing numbers they are expressing the belief that it is their responsibility to act as examples for the general public by not smoking themselves. Ninety-one per cent of physicians, 88 per cent of dentists, 87 per cent of nurses and 73 per cent of pharmacists agree with this position.

The majority agree it is their responsibility to convince people to stop smoking, and many believe this effort should include a more active role in speaking to lay groups about smoking.

Even health professionals who still smoke solidly endorse their role as exemplary figures, and in every group were more likely to report that they never smoke in front of patients.

Three of the four groups are making substantial strides toward following their own advice and a growing number of physicians, 61 per cent of dentists and 55 per cent of pharmacists quit by 1975.

Nurses lag behind the other health professionals in "kicking the habit" but are quitting at a slightly greater rate than other females. In 1975, of those women who had smoked, 36 per cent of nurses quit compared with 34 per cent of all female adults and 30 per cent of those who work outside the home. (Comparisons are made with both groups because more women with outside employment smoke than do homemakers.)

The percentage of nurses who still smoke is higher than that of other women: 39 per cent of nurses, 34 per cent of working females and 29 per cent of the adult female population still smoke. However, the survey shows fewer younger nurses smoke than do those 40 years of age and older — 34 per cent compared with 42 per cent.

Controversy Brews Over Old Negro League

Le Pacini

One of baseball's underground controversies is the disbanding of a special committee to select players from the old Negro leagues for the Hall of Fame. The thinking is that a good many have been left out, and may now never be able to make it in.

I agree, in principle, with the pro Negro league people. It IS hard to understand how, for example, Smokey Joe Williams could be left out, or Rube Foster, or perhaps even his brother Bill. Williams was proclaimed during his time by many Negro league observers as a superior pitcher if less colorful character than the legendary Satchel Paige, who is in the Hall. Foster was not only one of possibly the three or four best Negro league pitchers and a fine all around player, but was without doubt THE greatest Negro league executive. His brother was one of the greatest Negro southpaws. There are several others, I am sure, who deserve to legitimately be in the Hall.

BUT JUST BECAUSE so many Negroes were not allowed to play in white organized baseball does not mean that so many should be allowed into the Hall of Fame. To add MANY more, as some advocates seem to want to do, would only cheapen the admission of the true greats. And, incidentally, I have always been among those who have admitted that there are too many whites in the Hall as it is. We shouldn't compound the problem.

Whenever Negro league advocates of the move to open the flood gates to the Hall argue, they bring up things like how Williams beat Alexander and Marquard and so-and-so had a .370 lifetime batting average and, most recently, how an exhaustive study of admittedly sketchy Negro league statitics revealed that in head-to-head battles with major league teams, Negro league teams held a substantial edge.

All of that is true, except that much of it is as valid only as the true greatness of the individual Negro stars. For example, I am positive (or at least feel so, from my reading on the subject) that Smokey Joe Williams would have beaten some of white baseball's great pitchers and teams in ANY legitimate game. But the fact is that he always beat them in exhibition games because that was the only way he could play against them. Now, some Negro pitchers of much less talent than Williams ALSO beat some great big league pitchers — in exhibition games. I don't believe the vast majority of Negro leagues pitchers and teams could have so consistently beaten major league teams in legitimate, championship season games.

THERE ARE ALWAYS comparisons made, for example, of Negro league hitters' batting statistics when they played in the winter Cuban leagues with and against great white players, and almost invariably, the Negro hitters out-hit the great, highly publicized white hitters.

That really proves little.The point I obviously make is that white players rarely took barnstorming exhibitions or play in Cuban leagues seriously. They were out to make extra money as easily as possible, to relax, to forget the rigors of the pressure of the big league seasons. THEY had nothing to prove. The Negro players, on the other hand, had EVERYTHING to prove.

Exhibitions, in fact, were often played before predominantly Negro audiences, and white players weren't beyond trying to make their opponents look good, sometimes because they had great empathy for them sometimes because they got a cut of the gate. At other times, they did so because they weren't sure what the crowd's reaction would be should the black players be humiliated.

I'll never forget one black-white exhibition I saw at Seals Stadium as a kid. It was some touring black team against a group of Pacific Coast League "All Stars." It was winter and the black players were lean and hard, because they played year around. The so-called Coast League all-stars were mostly out of condition and lethargic.

I REMEMBER Seals' lefty Tom Seats getting cracked for three consecutive homeruns, the last one sailing over the center field fence, which at Seals Stadium, before its fences were shortened, was a gigantic poke which had only happened a few times in Stadium history. With each homerun, the large Negro audience went more wild, and with each homerun pitch, Seats laughed harder and harder, and just grooved his fast ball better and better. It was obvious that he was enjoying the show as much as the audience, which he aimed to please. I remember that after the smash over the center field fence, he turned to one of his infielders and winked.

None of the guys who hit Seats over the wall were big Negro stars. I'm sure that had they faced Seats in regular league play, they would not have been able to handle him so easily. I am also sure that a Josh Gibson would have murdered Seats at Tom's best.

Even Negro baseball historians agree that, while there were undoubtedly a few Negro teams which could have held their own in the white big leagues, as a whole the old Negro leagues were roughly equivalent to the white high minors, perhaps AAA at their best.

Conclusion? Proportionately speaking, there were no more Negro super players than there were, or are now super white players. So let's make sure that only the really great ones make it to the Hall.

MY WIFE BLITHELY strolled into Bay Meadows one day during the last week of the running, there, and picked the winners in the first two races she saw, both long shots.

"No more betting today," I told her, "you're treating to dinner."

As she was counting her loot, three pros who had evidently been watching her from a nearby table unobtrusively sidled up to her and inquired of her system.

"Oh," Robin said casually, "I go by who has the cutest names."

There was not one look of puzzlement. "That's as good as any," said one of the boys, as they strode away to a window.

"Shah Lea has a ring to it," said one of the guys.

"Personally, I think Catch Marie is cuter," said another.

LOCAL NOTES: Steve Rajeff, a San Francisco State student, recently won nine individual titles at the 69th U.S. bait casting championships in Cincinnati.

Pacifican Ken Gallo, a Terra Nova grad who is now a San Mateo County Sheriff's deputy and also assists TN track coaches, recently won a gold medal with a pole vault of 13 ft., 1-3/4 inches at the annual California Police Olympics in Santa Ana. Gallo, a '65 TN grad, still holds all of that school's vaulting records.

TAG END: Bar-bet No. 36-A: How many currently active big league managers are lefthanded (make the bet quick, before any of them get fired)? Name them and their positions.

There are four managerial lefties. Our own Joe Altobelli, a former first baseman; Dodger Tom Lasorda, pitcher; KC's Whitey Herzog, outfielder-first baseman; and Chuck Tanner, Pittsburgh, who was an outfielder.

Tyrolean Beef a Taste Treat

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Nothing is nicer to come home to than a hot beef dinner all ready to serve.

You needn't be a magician to accomplish this, either! Less tender cuts of beef teamed up with an electric slow cooker is the effortless way to cook while you work. So easy, in fact, that it is almost magic.

Simply put the beef, vegetables and seasonings into the pot. Eight hours or more later — after cooking automatically at a very low temperature — there will be a delicious one-pot meal cooked to perfection. Note the juicy, tender beef, simmered in flavors and tantalizing aroma.

To benefit busy people and working families, consumer specialists at the California Beef Council have developed a series of new, whole meal ideas specifically planned for the slow cooker.

This Tyrolean beef in wine sauce recipe is a fine example of how a ittle creativity in seasoning turns the basic slow cooker stew into gourmet fare. Here the country European feeling is emphasized with a touch of paprika, red potatoes and white wine. Use economical, lean beef stew for this dish or other budget priced cuts such as chuck, bottom round or shank. It's interesting to note that many vegetables done in the slow cooker seem to cook at about the same rate as the meat and retain their textures amazingly well. To make a heartier sauce, thicken the Tyrolean beef with flour aout 20 minutes before serving. Warm crusty rolls taste good with this.

TYROLEAN BEEF IN WINE SAUCE
(Slow cooker method)

- 1½ pounds lean beef stew
- 1 pound small red potatoes, cubed
- 3 carrots, thickly sliced
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 1 (14½ oz.) can sliced baby tomatoes*
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 teaspoons paprika
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon thyme, crumbled
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup flour
- ½ cup dry white wine

* or 1 (16-ounce can tomato wedges

Combine the one and one-half pounds stew beef, one pound cubed potatoes, three thickly sliced carrots, one large sliced onion, canned tomatoes, one bay leaf, two teaspoons paprika, one and one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon thyme, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and pour into electric slow cooker. Cover and cook on low setting for eight hours or until tender.

Mix the fourth cup flour with the half cup dry white wine. Stir into beef mixture. Cover and cook 20 to 30 minutes longer.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Play to Benefit Children's School

A play to benefit the Scottish Rite Children's aphasia school in San Francisco will be held by Job's Daughters, Rainbow Girl and DeMolay dramatists this weekend and next at the Scottish Rite Auditorium.

Several Peninsulans are members of the cast of "The Boyfriend", a Roaring Twenties musical comedy, to be performed at 7:30 p.m., Aug. 19, 26-27.

San Mateo County residents performing in the auditorium, at 19th and Sloat, in San Francisco are Marcy Canale of Millbrae, cast in the lead part of "Polly," and Janis Scheldrup, also of Millbrae, who plays "Dulcie;" Bryan Siege of South San Francisco; Bob Marschall of San Bruno; and Joyce Boghosian, Jim Cala and Julie Barsadi, all of Daly City.

"Boyfriend" is directed by Gerald Corrick, while musical directors are H. Hollingsworth and Rick Martini. Some 10 members of the Lowell High School orchestra form the musical group.

Mrs. Reyna Allan Graham is the choreographer.

Tickets are $2.50 each.

Fishing Conditions

The summer doldrums have slowed fishing conditions throughout Northern and Central California this week as extreme fire hazards continue.

Low and warming waters are driving fish deeper in lakes and reservoirs. High elevation areas are producing fair to good angling, but fishermen are warned to use extreme caution with fire.

The U.S. Forest Service and state officials have banned campfires and other burning in many areas, including Shasta, Butte, Modoc, Lassen, Tehama and Plumas counties. Brush and forest fires are burning in many areas.

North Coast salmon fishing is fair to good, and the Klamath and Trinity rivers report some salmon action.

Lakes Shasta and Trinity are very low and dropping — boat launching is difficult, but check locally.

Hat Creek on the Pit River watershed rates fair to good, and the upper reaches of the Feather and Yuba are fair, with best fishing in the early morning and late evening.

Bear Creek on the North Fork Tule River is fair. Also reporting fair is the North Fork Tuolumne River, with Moccasin Creek on the Tuolumne showing good action.

Gymnastics Program Tonight

A summer gymnastics program, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, will conclude tonight with a summer gymnastic production at 7:30 at Westlake Community Center, 145 Lake Merced Blvd.

Also scheduled is a summer dance production, which will conclude the Children's Dance program for the summer. The performance will be at the War Memorial Community Center, 6655 Mission St., at 8 p.m. Friday.

There is no charge for admission to either performance.

7 of 9 Teams Eye Playoffs

With three weeks remaining in the 1977 Daly City Recreation Department Women's Softball league, seven of the nine teams still have a chance for the four playoff positions.

In last week's action, Natural Gas jumped its record to 4-1 and moved into a tie for first place — with a 23-9 victory over Crown Colony.

Catomer Realty won its fourth consecutive game by defeating the Nut Crackers 28-3, and moved to within one-half game of first place.

Bianchini's defeated the Cold Bottles 15-5, bringing its record to 3-2, only one game out of first.

The Cold Bottles record fell (3-3). The Base Busters edged Charlie's Angels 7-5 to gain its second victory of the season.

Ever wonder what interests today's kids? This is a good week to check up on the things that interest the under-18 crowd.

The Park and Recreation Department has named this "Talent Fiesta Week" and each of the city's recreation centers will have displays of hobbies, talent shows and a puppet program.

THE FIRST Mary's Help Hospital guild meeting of the '77-'78 season will be held this Friday at 12:30 p.m. in the hospital's "A" solarium.

Tray favors will be produced in the cafeteria, beginning at 10:30 a.m., for those who enjoy arts and crafts and the Executive Board will convene at the same hour in the hospital's board room.

Beginning their new duties as chairmen of various volunteer services are Mrs. Eloise Butler, special projects or "spot jobs"; Mrs. Peggy Crandall, stroke club; Mrs. Fran Gaffigan, tours; Mrs. Virginia Stanghellini, outpatient information and Mrs. Pat Lindsay who is serving a second term as chairman of the Tele-Care project.

THE DALY CITY Senior Citizens club will hold its annual picnic in Flood Park Sept. 8, according to Mrs. Louise Buttle, publicity chairwoman for the unit meeting at the Lincoln Park Memorial Clubhouse.

It has been a busy summer for the members who are helping the bazaar chairwoman Mrs. Helen Villalba, prepare for the Oct. 26 pre-holiday sale of hand-crafted items.

In addition to the work on the bazaar the members have taken on an extra project, which eventually will result in a gift presentation.

IF YOU want to help form a new senior citizens group, contact the Daly City Park and Recreation Department for more information about a proposed club to meet on Tuesdays in the Westlake Community Center.

THOSE SENIOR citizens in Pacifica are off and running again!

According to Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, a chartered bus will leave Eureka Square at 2:30 p.m. and pick up additional members in Half Moon Bay at 3 p.m., then proceed to Santa Clara and Great America.

Members will enjoy the sights and the shows at their leisure and then meet, as a group, at 9 p.m. for the fireworks display.

Immediately afterward, the bus will start its return trip — with stops in Half Moon Bay, Eureka Square and San Francisco.

The cost is $13.75 per person and reservations must be made immediately. For more information, call Mrs. Lucille Rentmeester, club president, or Mrs. Calhan, director of trips and tours.

To Stay in Program

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman has announced the issuance of new regulations allowing child care centers to remain in the child care food program while awaiting a ruling on an application for tax-exempt status.

Program regulations say that child care centers and family and group day care homes must have, or be moving towards, tax-exempt status in order to qualify for the program. However, due to circumstances beyond their control, certain institutions have not been able to obtain tax-exempt status within the 12 months allowed under current regulations. The assistant secretary said.

So as not to penalize programs that have encountered delays in receiving tax-exempt status, USDA is temporarily removing the 12-month restriction. Department officials say they are amending this child care food program regulation without proposed rulemaking and a public participation procedure so as not to harm any participant by the timing of its issuance. The 12-month restriction was lifted July 27.

Women Demand Better Portrayals on Television

An end to male dominance of the television industry and portrayals of women as secondary beings is urged in guidelines presented to television stations throughout California this week by the California Commission on the Status of Women's task force on media.

The guidelines were released as stations filed renewal applications with the Federal Communications Commission which requires them to include proposals to serve the community.

They are based on extensive hearings held by the California Commission in which 25 media organizations participated, and on recent studies.

"Data presented by the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists and the Screen Actors Guild indicate that men dominate policy and decision-making positions throughout the television industry. Men direct community advisory boards; they are the survey experts hired to ascertain community needs. They fill virtually all responsible positions such as producer, director, assignment editor, show host, commentator and they dominate management positions," said Anita Miller, Commission chair.

The failure to depict women in all the variety and influence of their roles today adversely affects their images to themselves, to children, to men and to society generally, according to the report.

The commission offered these proposals:

- That staffing from top levels down be representative of the population of California women.
- That salaries for men and women be equitable.
- That women in proportion to their population be selected to serve on the community advisory boards which are charged with insuring that community needs are met.
- That the FCC adopt criteria to make the boards reflective of the community and independent of any corporate bodies or boards.
- That programming reflect realistic concerns of women, rather than stereotyped images; and that such issues as economic discrimination, rape, and violence against women be aired.
- That such programming be placed in prime time.
- That women be represented in policy-making positions such as directors, news commentators and anchorpersons, writers and hired for positions throughout the management structure.
- That the FCC insure that there is parity in numbers of men and women interviewed for ascertainment of community needs.

The proposal is being forwarded to the FCC.

BROADMOOR CONFERENCE SET

Looking over plans for Broadmoor Presbyterian Church's annual "Family Conference," scheduled Sept. 23-25 at Mt. Hermon Christian Conference Grounds (Santa Cruz Mountains), are, from left, Mrs. Marjorie Tweedie, Ken Gillespie, conference coordinator, Merton Jones and Leona Robinson, all of Daly City. The event will feature Chaplain Walter Johnson of Peninsula Hospital as theme speaker. The public can attend. For registration, contact Mrs. Dorothy Ostberg (756-2448), 608 87th St., Daly City.

NEWS DIGEST

Search for a Queen

The Italian-American Federation of San Mateo County is again sponsoring a contest to select Queen Isabella for 1977.

Contestants must be single women between the ages of 16 to 254 and of at least 1/4 Italian descent. Each participant will be judged by her appearance, ability to answer questions and talent.

First prize is a trip to Hawaii for two. Second prize is a trip for two either to Disneyland or Las Vegas.

Anyone interested in further details can call Angie Lubrano at 343-7578 or Terry Anderlini at 348-0102. All contestants must submit their applications by Sept. 2.

Faster Food Stamps

Under new amendments to food stamp regulations, eligible households must be authorized to buy their food stamps within a time limit that begins the day the state welfare agency receives the food stamp application, and ends the last day of the following month.

If a household does not receive authorization to purchase food stamps within the prescribed time limit, their lost food stamp benefits must be restored. Lost benefits are calculated from the first day of the month which follows the month of application.

Help for Filipinos

A Filipino-language edition (Tagalog Dialect) of the California Driver's Handbook now is available to the state's estimated 135,000 Filipinos.

Translated at no charge by members of the Filipino community, the new publication is being distributed at all 147 DMV field offices.

A Filipino-language version of the written driver's license examination has been in use at DMV for about a month.

The translation of the handbook was the result of a 1975 statewide language survey conducted at DMV field offices. The survey revealed that more than 400,000 people who visit DMV offices annually have difficulty communicating in English. As a result, the department has printed handbooks in Chinese, Korean, Portuguese and Vietnamese. The Spanish handbook has been available since 1969. The Japanese version is being printed.

Cartoon Art Exhibit

An unusual exhibit of cartoon art is open at Periwinkle Art Gallery, 1227 Danmann, Pedro Point, Pacifica. The Northern California cartoon and Humor Association (NCCHA) will display cartoons, drawing, comic strips, and paitings through Sept. 4.

This Bay Area group includes creators of comic strips: Gus Arriola "Gordo", Milton Caniff "Steve Canyon", Ruth Barnes "The Better Half", Frank Hill "Short Ribs", Morrie Brickman "Small Society", Roger Bradfield "Dooley's World", Gene Hazelton "Flintstones", Ralph Heimdahl "Bugs Bunny", Les Holley "Pony Tail", Marty Links "Emmy Lou", Dick Rogers "Johnny Wonder", Charles M. Schulz "Peanuts", Bob Thaves "Frank & Earnest", Al Vermeer "Pricilla's Pop"; noted free-lance magazine cartoonists: Glenn Bernhardt, Jim Brown, Eldon Dedini, Alden Erikson, Walt Miller; editorial cartoonists: Robert Graysmith, Dick Flood, John Keeling, Bob Stevens, Wally Bartron; oils and acrylics by Carl Anderson and Tony Chiles; book illustrators: Evelyne Bachman, Janet Cleland, Gary Branchaud; candid photos by Alyce Sheehan.

NCCRA was founded in 1953. With over 170 members, it is now the second largest and most active cartoon group in the country. Membership includes cartoonists specializing in all fields. Its members have taught cartooning and gag-writing at College of San Mateo and through the Burlingame Recreation program.

Two Pacifica residents whose work is included in the exhibit are Jack Matsuoka and Tom Jackson,. Matsuoka will show political and sports cartoons. Jackson will display sculpture, drawings and cartoons from his four recently published books.

Steady Job Picture

Seasonal gains and losses sprinkled the San Francisco-Oakland area employment picture in July.

Actual numbers of jobholders and jobseekers were virtually unchanged from June, although the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate creeped up one-tenth of a percentage point to 8.3.

Labor market analysts for the State Employment Development Department said the July employment total was 1,392,600, just 1,400 above June's record-breaking 1,391,200.

Unemployment in July at 132,400 was a slim 200 higher than June.

Easter Seal Campaign

The Easter Seal Society in San Mateo County is preparing its annual Neighbor-to-Neighbor Drive. Telephone operators will be calling local residents to ask for help.

Each volunteer will be asked to pass a donation kit to a neighbor. That neighbor will pass the kit to another neighbor, until all households in the block have been contacted.The volunteer merely picks up the kit after it has toured the designated block.

Proceeds from the drive will support the society's comprehensive rehabilitation center in Burlingame. The center serves handicapped residents of San Mateo County on an out-patient basis. No person is refused treatment because of inability to pay.

Lee Mason, executive director of the local Easter Seal Society, noted that more than 96 cents of every dollar donated stays in San Mateo County.

The society provides numerous services to county residents, including speech therapy, occupational and physical therapy and orthopedics. In addition, the Society maintains a vocational workshop which provides meaningful work for disabled individuals as a means of facilitating their re-entry to the labor market.

The goal for this year's Neighbor-to-Neighbor campaign is $30,000.

More Tax Exemptions

The homeowner's exemption for those who pay property tax will be granted to 3.89 million California households this year.

This figure represents a growth during the past year of 130,900 homeowners qualifying for this exemption, and coincides closely with the number of new single-family dwellings built during that period.

VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL

"Getting to know you" is the theme at the Vacation Church School of the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377 87th St., Daly City, from Aug. 22-26 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. This is for kindergarten through sixth graders. Registration fee is $1 to help with expenses. Pictured are Marjie Tweedie, director, Jane Sharp, co-director, and Joe Sharp, youth leader. The theme will be carried out in Bible stories, songs, crafts, games and friends. A picnic will be held over the noon hour on Friday with a program presented to the church congregation on Aug. 28 at 10 a.m. Children of the community, regardless of church affiliation, are invited, according to Rev. Herbert C. Tweedie, pastor.

Scenic Ocean View Nick's Restaurant

"Picture perfect" is the way many describe the scenic ocean view at NICK'S restaurant, Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Visitors and localites alike are enthralled with the picture window view while dining or enjoying cocktails in the lounge. A big appetite pleaser is the 16 ounce New York Steak served with soup or salad, vegetable and gravy, French fries and bread....."There is meat on the table" at VINCE'S ITALIAN AND SEAFOOD restaurant, and we mean championship beef. NINA and TONY LICATA, owners of this "Fisherman's Wharf restaurant on the Peninsula," purchased the San Mateo County Grand Champion Steer "Cowboy Jim," which weighed in at 1,122 pounds. The beef will be "table ready" after the proper amount of aging . . . Barney's Plans New Restaurant Menu

A new menu will soon preem in the restaurant section of BARNEY'S CASINO, and we look for another "winner." Food prices in this South Lake Tahoe club, as well as the SOUTH TAHOE NUGGET, are attracting the budget-minded.....If ROMANO'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant, Rockaway Beach, looks packed on Tuesdays and the door is locked, don't get confused. It's just that Owner ENRICO ROMANO, an active Rotarian, opens the doors of his restaurant every Tuesday for the weekly Rotarian meetings during lunch hours. Open to the public every day from 4 p.m.....RICHARD TRAINOR, maitre d' at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant in Redwood City, will be back on the job tonight after a two-week vacation at the family's Nippersink Manor Resort, Genoa, Wisconsin..... STEVE TROY is the owner of THE DRESSING ROOM, a unique salad restaurant which recently opened in the new Mateo Square on Third Avenue. Besides a large selection of salads, with a choice of 15 dressings, they feature soups, sandwiches (hot and cold), desserts (also frozen yogurt) and beverages. All orders may be prepared to take out. You'll love the informal "backstage" atmosphere with its contemporary look. Everyone is a "star" in The Dressing Room.

Fish, Game Seeks Photography Entries

Nineteen entries have been received in the 1977 competition of the California Fish and Game Commission's photography award program.

Commission President Berger C. Benson, San Mateo, said seven persons from locations throughout the state and one from out of state had submitted entries.

Benson said that the objective of the state-wide photography award program is to foster a greater appreciation for California's varied fish and wildlife and habitat resources.

Entries of black and white or color prints of live fish and wildlife species in their native habitat and pictures of the natural environment will be accepted for the contest, now in its third year.

Anyone may enter the competition. Participants will be limited to a total of two entries per category. Continuing categories are fish, bird, mammal, reptile and amphibian — and natural environment. Special categories for 1977 are marine mammals and bighorn sheep.

Entries will be judged by the Friends of Photography, headed by the famed photographer Ansel Adams. Certificates of excellence and honorable mention will be awarded in each category and the photograph of the year will be displayed in the State Capitol on a perpetual trophy, a replica of which will go to the photographer.

Entries in this year's competition must be received before Sept. 30.

Additional information on the program and the commission's fish and wildlife award program may be obtained by writing the commission at 1416 Ninth St., Sacramento 95814.

The first childbirth class will be Oct. 1 at the Villa Hotel from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. The class will emphasize good nutrition, physical fitness and solutions to pregnancy discomforts.

'Soaps' are about life

"Maybe it isn't only in storybooks that you suddenly meet the handsome stranger. Maybe he's there, everywhere, all the time, waiting for that fateful moment. And now Julie thinks of her father's advice, 'Follow your heart.' And she thinks of the handsome stranger."

Julie Fielding, who is 19, rich and beautiful, is promised to Harry Phillips, a well-to-do and well born neighbor who loves her dearly. But the promptings of Julie's heart are unclear, "Can one marry without love and expect to find happiness?" Then it happens! On the very day that her engagement is to be announced, Julie meets her "dreamboat," Peter Davis, who came to fix the piano. In this manner a soap opera — "Follow Your Heart" was born with the same plot as "When a Girl Marries." Six years later, Julie was still wondering if she should marry steady Harry or handsome Peter.

In Madeleine Edmondson's and David Rounds' updated and expanded book "From Mary Noble to Mary Hartman," the soap operas sit for their portrait.

"A soap opera," wrote James Thurber, "is a kind of sandwich, whose recipe is simple enough, although it took years to compound. Between thick slices of advertising, spread 12 minutes of dialogue, add predicament, villainy and female suffering in equal measure, throw in a dash of nobility, sprinkle with tears, season with organ music, cover with a rich announcer sauce and serve five times a week."

Samuel Chandler

The fact remains, however, that people watch the soap operas. Male and female, adults and children, people from every walk of life follow the daily segments of unabashed melodramas. Why?

"Because," write Edmondson and Rounds, "the soap operas are stories about American life." As the announcer used to say at the beginning of each episode of "Rosemary," "This is your story — this is you." In the soaps, average people see other average people cope with problems that are made to seem as common as everyday headaches. The soaps deal with the emotional relationships of people. In them the real world is ignored, as is religion and money matters, while the characters move from a viewpoint of eternal hope. "Oh, life does work out so wonderfully. If people just have patience."

"From Mary Noble to Mary Hartman," recalls the old favorites and lets the reader live once more with "Ol' Ma Perkins" and "Our Gal Sunday." It leads to a tear for the mother in "Stella Dallas" and for Father Barbour in "One Man's Family." It brings back the endless "Romance of Helen Trent" and "The Edge of Night."

It places such shows as "Amos and Andy" and "Upstairs, Downstairs" in the land of the soaps, where they belong. It defines a soap opera and attempts to analyze the prejudice and hostility that some of them meet from critics the world over. It suggests that soap opera fans have nothing to be ashamed of.

"The soap operas force the viewer to consider and answer some of the time-honored philosophical questions: What is happiness? What is love? How can we reconcile ourselves to misfortune, accept death, justify what seems like a crushing and incomprehensible fate? What do we live for anyway? And is it worthwhile?" write Edmondson and Rounds.

They conclude, "The soaps are providing at least an attempt to find meaning in individual life, and it is from this attempt that they gain their energy and magnetism."

Help Wanted

The following agencies have requested volunteer assistance from the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County, with offices in Burlingame, Daly City and Redwood City.

The local telephone number for area residents is 992-0957, an answering service. Residents may also call the main office in Burlingame at 342-0801, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

SUICIDE PREVENTION AND CRISIS CENTER — The next training session for new volunteers to staff the 24-hour crisis line will begin on Sep. 24 and continue on four additional Saturdays. Interviews are required prior to the training and will be held through Sept. 9.

COYOTE POINT MUSEUM FOR ENVIRONMENTAL EDUCATION — The new museum will be opening in October 1978 and now is recruiting for its first docent training class. Docents will be conducting tours to interpret the displays and philosophy.

Volunteer docents will need to make a commitment of 20 half-days per year. The training will begin on Sept. 1 and consist of one college level course in basic ecology plus in-gallery training. There will be a fee to cover the cost of materials.

GREENPEACE FOUNDATION — This organization is working to save the dwindling whale and seal population and is seeking volunteer assistance in many areas.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO SCHOOL DISTRICT — Volunteer tutors are needed on a one-to-one basis for a special program in remedial reading for grades one through six. This will begin in the fall semester. Volunteers will be trained to use special materials. For continuity, volunteers are asked to make a commitment of three days per week.

Interviews will be made in Daly City by appointment only.

FEEDING ROSES

The California Association of Nurserymen suggests the following rule for late season fertilizing of rose bushes: Feed lightly in early September if it's been a month since the last feeding.

Eliminate any end-of-the-month feedings or you may stimulate new growth at pruning time when the bushes should be dormant.
